

The Art of OTOGI

Yae Takahashi - Solo Exhibition

"I feel that all the works I have created so far connect to the theme of OTOGI. Inside each being, there is a small world and a story.

When I observe the forms and movements of living things, and the rhythms and connections hidden within, I sense layers overlapping like patterns, shaping the Earth itself. Though often unseen, I gently capture these 'otogi'-like moments – delicate landscapes that quietly exist all around us."

Yae Takahashi

Artist Profile

Yae Takahashi's artwork explores the unseen connections and harmony of life through minimalistic shapes and patterned designs inspired by animals, plants, and natural elements such as fish, turtles, birds, stars, the moon, grasses, flowers, and trees. Her work conveys both fragility and strength while revealing the subtle stories of coexistence and the invisible bonds within nature.

Recurring patterns in her work reflect the intricate designs of the natural world and the mysteries of the microscopic realm. Drawing on her experiences in both Japan and New Zealand, traditional colours and patterns from these cultures are seamlessly woven into her artistic expression.
